BEAUTIFUL LIFE ENDED

When the Lord Took From Our Midst Mrs. Ella Priest.

Had Long Been Member of the Christian Church.

After an illness of a few weeks' duration Mrs. Ella Priest died at her home on East Main street Saturday morning of Pericarditis. Mrs. Priest, who had been ill for some time, was thought to be improving up until a few hours before her death. Deceased was a member of the Christian church and was a woman of beautiful Christian character. She gave much of her time and means toward furthering the work of her Lord and Master and was ever willing to aid those in need and distress. She has been a sufferer for years, but always looked on the bright side of life and never complained.

She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Anna Priest, Mrs. B. F. Mark, Miss Emily Roberts, and Mrs. Matt Scott, and one brother, Mr. George M. Roberts, all of this county. To the bereaved ones we extend our sincerest sympathy.

May Enter Race.

Although it is yet some time before a nominee can be selected for the Legislature, many friends of Mr. Sam Turley, of this county, are urging him to enter the race. Not only Montgomery county people want him to run, but in Menefee county, where he is also well known, he has received many letters asking him to make the race. He is a farmer and a gentleman whose genial disposition, faithful service to friends and party, will make him a hard man to beat.

Surprised Friends

On Tuesday, April 2, Miss Harriet Rogers Apperson and Mr. William Bridges White were quietly married at the residence of the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. Lewis Apperson, on North Maysville street.

The wedding was quite a surprise to their host of friends, as the announcement of their engagement had only been made a few days before.

Miss Apperson was one of the most popular girls in Mt. Sterling, being a leader in all social functions. Mr. White, who is Commonwealth's Attorney of this district, is considered one of the best lawyers in this section and is a gentleman in all that the term denotes. As soon as same can be furnished, they will make their home at the beautiful residence on North Maysville street, recently purchased by the groom.

Wonder why some folks are willing to pay two prices for their seeds and groceries and then fuss and stew about everything being so awfully high. Not much good common sense in that is it?

Onion sets, 8c a quart or 30c a gallon; two regular 5c papers of vegetable and flower seeds for 5c; 15c bottle good catsup for 5c; largest stock of seed sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes in town. Special prices for Court Day. Two packages Kellogg's corn flakes for 15c. Save the difference at The Spot Cash Grocery.

Buys Big Jack.

Mr. E. R. Little has just purchased from Garrard county parties a splendid jack that measures full 16 hands high. He is said to have splendid head, ear and bone, and several good judges of stock have pronounced him the finest animal they have ever seen. Mr. little will stand him this season at his farm on the Maysville pike. He will also have in his barn this season the famous Silent Brook, the trotter with a reputation second to none in the country.

Will be a Candidate.

Mr. J. Will Clay has signified his intention of being a candidate for Senator from this district, it being Montgomery county's time to select the candidate, and will at the proper time make his formal announcement. Mr. Clay, who is one of the most popular men in the county; has a world of friends and would be sure to make an excellent race.

The Minstrel.

The minstrel given by W. O. W. Lodge Monday night drew a large crowd. Mr. N. D. Brown and Mr. John Gatewood, the "end men," afforded much amusement by their jokes. Mr. Brown scored the hit of the show with his song, "Thank You, That's a Plenty." Messrs. Caldwell Clay and Howard Wyatt elicited much applause by their dancing.

TAFT EASILY SWEEPS THE STATE ACCORDING TO LATEST REPORT

Although in Many Counties Two Conventions Are Held and There Will be Several Contests to be Decided---Followers of the Rough Rider Charge Fraud in Louisville, Lexington and Other Cities.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY SENDS UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES TO THE CONVENTION.

The Republican convention held in this city Saturday was the hottest one held here for many years. Mr. R. H. White was chosen chairman and Mr. G. L. Kirkpatrick was selected as secretary. A set of resolutions were offered that had been agreed upon by the leaders of the Taft and Roosevelt forces in a private meeting held the morning before the convention.

The resolutions endorsed the Taft administration, the candidacy of Judge R. H. Winn for Judge of the Court of Appeals, the reappointment of Major A. T. Wood as Pension Agent, the last State platform, and instructed W. O. Bradley, E. C. O'Rear and W. D. Johnson, (col.) for delegates-at-large to the Chicago National Convention, and for Judge John Hardwick, of Stanton, for District delegate.

Immediately upon these resolutions being offered, they were seconded, but before a vote could be taken upon the question, Mr. W. Hoffman Wood offered several amendments and Mr. S. O. Wood also offered an amendment.

Mr. Hoffman Wood's amendments were discussed by him at length and he bitterly attacked the private meeting held by what he termed the "so-called leaders" and the agreement made between them. He was answered by Judge E. C. O'Rear, who for over an hour, put the two Woods, above mentioned, through as severe a grueling as two men ever received. He told of his friendship for the family for years and how, ever since he was a voter, he had always served them in every way possible. His speech was a masterful one and his scathing sarcasm was heaped upon their heads without pity or mercy. At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. W. H. Wood withdrew his resolutions with two exceptions. But Judge O'Rear called for a division and count on the original resolutions as offered, with the amendment only of substituting Henry Botts name in place of W. D. Johnson and upon the poll being taken the O'Rear resolution won by 98 to 63.

The delegates selected, numbering thirteen, were sent uninstructed, but it is known that 8 are Taft men, while five are for Roosevelt. Much feeling was shown and it is predicted here, as well as in other counties, that many of the Roosevelt supporters, should Taft receive the nomination, will refuse to support him. Never in years have the Republican been so badly split.

Died at Lexington.

Mr. Lawrence Clark, youngest son of Rev. H. D. Clark, of this city, died at Lexington Monday after a few days illness of pneumonia. Deceased had not made his home in Mt. Sterling for several years, but is well remembered here where he has many friends who will learn of his death with regret.

Rev. H. D. Clark, who has been minister of the Christian church for twenty-five years, and is one of the most highly respected men in our city, has the deepest sympathy of the entire community in this his great loss.

New Bookkeeper.

Mr. Ratliff Lane, son of Judge Jas. H. Lane, of Bath county, has been elected Individual Bookkeeper of the Exchange Bank of Kentucky.

Mr. Lane comes to our city highly recommended as a competent bookkeeper and an excellent gentleman. We are informed his father and family will soon move to this county to live and we welcome these good people to our midst.

Elected Director.

At the meeting of the Kentucky Saddle Horse Breeders' Association, held at Louisville Friday, Mr. R. B. Young, of this county, was elected to the board of directors. Mr. John T. Woodford, who has been a member of the board for many years, was also re-elected a director. Both of these gentlemen are thorough horsemen and excellent men, and their selection could not be improved upon.

Delightful Entertainment.

The children of the Christian church gave an entertainment at the church Sunday night. A very large audience was present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

A Mistake.

The following from Prof. J. G. Crabbe, President State Normal at Richmond, Ky., is self-explanatory:

The smallpox "situation" at State Normal was mostly "scare." The only case—a mild one—was taken to the hospital at once. The young man was not sick, but on the contrary, was going about the hospital, walking and playing ball on the grounds during his quarantine. Very few students left school and many of these have returned. The school and school work go on daily as usual. New students are arriving on every train. Kindly assist in spreading the facts here.

With best wishes for you and your publication, I am,

Very truly yours,

Brick Street Work.

Hancock & Co. have put a large force of men to work and are pushing the construction of the brick streets as much as possible. They have a concrete mixer and spreader that is one of the latest inventions out. This machine mixes and spreads the concrete instead of having to have it put on the street with wheelbarrows as the contractors who had the work last year did. This will enable them to concrete from two to three squares per day. Several gentlemen, interested in the brick streets, are anxiously awaiting the starting to work of this machine.

IS INSURANCE STOCK A SAFE INVESTMENT?

STRAIGHT TALK NO. 4

On Investments In the Capital Stock of Insurance Companies

The supervision exercised over Insurance Companies is probably more rigorous than that exercised over any other class of financial institutions. Banks, for illustration, are subject to the inspection and examination of the Bank Commissioner of the State in which they are located, and Trust Companies are subject to the same authority. Insurance Companies, however, are subject to the careful supervision and examination of the Insurance Commissioners of every state in which they transact business, each of whom has the authority, and regularly exercises the right of examination and the application of solvency tests.

There are no more substantial securities listed in the financial markets today than Insurance Stocks, the exact value of which is determined each year by sworn reports and State Department examinations, to which great publicity is given. Provisions of the insurance laws safeguard the small company equally as well as the large, as, in each case, a proportion of the premium passes into the custody of the State.

The Opportunity for a New Company

The South, we all know, is entering upon a period of immense activity and there is every economic reason to believe that this condition will continue for a long period of years.

Geographically, the KENTUCKY LIVE STOCK INSURANCE COMPANY is distinctively well located for the building-up of a great business in the South and in adjacent territory North, and those who have read the preceding announcements of this Company must admit that the organization of the KENTUCKY LIVE STOCK INSURANCE COMPANY has been effected along the safest and most economical lines.

An examination of the list Board of Directors, upon this page, will convince the most skeptical of the live stock experience back of this Company, as the Board of Directors comprises some of the best known live stock experts in this part of the country.

The publicity given to all insurance organizations is security against extravagance and mismanagement and the demand for this form of insurance guarantees a profitable business from the start.

The Problem of the Unemployed.

In every community there will be found untrained men who are willing to work, if it can be secured. Out of work, they become a menace to society. It is a situation every city should try to solve.
Eventually it means either the prison or a training school of employment. Which shall it be?
The training school is not only cheaper but is vastly better, and it is certainly worth while.

Out of the investigations being carried on in Chicago by the commission of inquiry into the problem of the unemployed certain facts have been clearly demonstrated. One is that it is not always possible for men to secure work. There are many seasonable lines of employment open to men at certain periods of the year.
When this work is exhausted, it is foolish to expect those men to secure employment, because other lines of employment are doubtless full or overcrowded. You can't blame either the man or the employer in a case like this.

The invention of new machinery, the introduction of new processes, change in the location of plants, and the decaying of old trades are also causes which will be sure to result in having a large proportion of men in the ranks of the chronically unemployed.

Prof. Charles R. Henderson, secretary of the commission, states some of the remedies which might be efficacious in solving the problem. They are:

To persuade railroads, large construction concerns and bureaus in the government employing large numbers of men to make 10 year contracts, thus overcoming lack of employment because of times of industrial depression.

To bring together employers and employes engaged in seasonable work, so jobs may be dovetailed and large "gangs" transferred from one employer to another without being thrown out of all employment.

To create a single labor exchange operating in territory throughout a state or several states.

To shorten the hours of labor.

To train the young longer and let old persons do the odd jobs.

To establish training schools for untrained men willing to work.

To establish a system of insurance similar to one used in France by which the man out of work may receive assistance during periods of unemployment.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It offers one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Electricity Aids the Dentist.

The dental profession has great need for steady and reliable power and the various machines are so small and delicate that only a little power is used at any one time and, therefore, such cumbersome and expensive power producers as gas-engines, waterwheels and steam engines are entirely out of the question. But electricity has adapted itself to all branches of dental work and it has proven capable and economical as well.

In the old days the dentist ran his drill by foot power. This was very unsatisfactory as it hindered him in his work and tried him very quickly when there was plenty of drilling to be done.
Now the drill is operated by a tiny electric motor which is very easily started and stopped and which will give any speed desired.
Another little motor is used to drive the dental lathe and to supply compressed air for the gas flame for melting gold.

The X-ray machine is also extensively used in dental work.
X-ray photographs are taken of the teeth for complete examination and to locate troubles and defects hidden by the gums. A small electric furnace is also used to bake porcelain and to prepare the rubber plates.

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The effort to discredit Judge O'Rear at home by instructing for Mr. Taft, whom he opposed, met with merited defeat in the Republican Convention Saturday, since it was not only bad politics, but bad treatment as well. It is the custom to send the last nominee for Governor to the National Convention as a delegate from the State-at-Large. An unqualified endorsement in his home county was his by right and he should not have been forced to make an open fight for it in what ought to have been the "House of his friends."

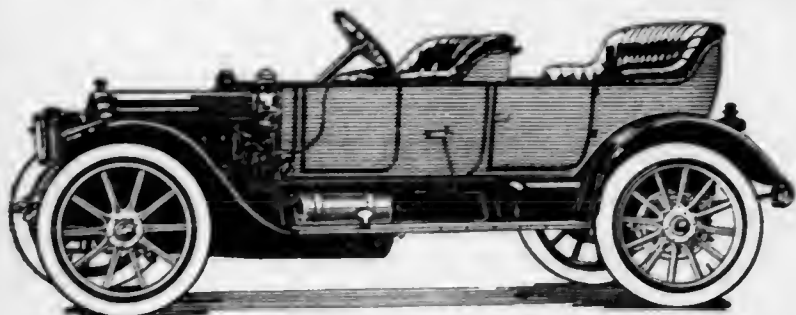

The result in this county cannot have much weight in the State Convention or bearing upon the result. The question, when rightly considered, was, shall Judge O'Rear be publicly humiliated at home, or shall he be given the consideration due a distinguished gentleman and faithful party man?

He knew, to use a slang expression, that the "cards had been stacked" against him for weeks, yet like the game fighter he is, feeling thrice armed, he staked his all, and as his personal friend we rejoice in the fact that he has been vindicated at home, whether the State Convention sends him to Chicago or not.

Judge O'Rear, in his speech here Saturday, paid his respects to some local would-be Republican leaders by accusing them of giving him lip support only last fall. Come to think about it, some of them did say a good deal.

Speaking of being sat upon, did you attend the convention Saturday? He took 'em like "Grant took Richmond," and thus discretion was again shown to be the better part of valour

LOVER OF THE SIMPLE LIFE

Marquis Komura, Great Japanese Statesman, Remarkable for Dislike of Ostentation.

The late Marquis Komura was famous for his bohemian habits. He had little thought for his personal comfort. Not till the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese alliance did he possess a residence of his own. But when he was given a large sum of money by the Emperor after the consummation of the alliance he had a new residence built at Haramachi. Never once during the building of the house, nor for a long time after it was built, did he visit his new property. He lived exclusively in the official residence, going to the Imperial hotel for his meals.

One evening, however, he took a long walk, in the course of which he fancied he would make a visit to his new residence. He walked about Haramachi in quest of his new house but could not find it until he inquired at a police box.—Yokohama Herald.

NO LICENSE NECESSARY.

If once a man keeps a dog and takes out a license the authorities appear to regard him as liable to pay the tax for the rest of his natural life. Consequently it is no unusual occurrence for a householder who, at some remote time, was the owner of a dog, to receive early in the year a somewhat curt note from the local excise officer reminding him that he has not renewed his permit.

A friend of the writer once received an official communication requesting his early attention to the fact that his dog license "had expired."

But the authorities were rather taken aback when the addressee simply wrote across the face of the communication, "So has the dog," and returned it.

SUFFICIENT UNTO HERSELF.

Small and independent Mamie was exploring a toy-shop with her mother and two older brothers. To see what she would do in an emergency, they hid behind a counter and watched her. After looking around and finding herself quite alone, she serenely resumed her trudge, gazing complacently at the array of dolls and toys. Presently a floor walker, who had taken in the bit of fun, approached her and said:

"Why, hello! Aren't you lost?"

"Oh no," she smiled, patronizingly, "I isn't; dem is."—Harper's Bazar.

TO STUDY CAPRICORNUS.

"Nobody can learn all there is that's worth knowing in a lifetime," said Mr. Meekton, wisely, "and a man ought never to assume that his education is finished. I'm going to keep right ahead with mine. I'm going to study astronomy."

His wife looked at him sharply, and then in a cold, hard tone exclaimed:

"Leonidas, you'll have to think up some better excuse than that for staying out at night!"

FROM BAD TO WORSE.

"It is now customary for ladies to take their hats off in places of public entertainment."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "but some of us appear to do so simply for the sake of giving our hair a chance to expand."

"Did you see where the crew of some vessel deserted in a body because one of them saw a ghost walking around?"

"They could have easily manned that vessel with stranded actors."

CHILD WAS HIS INSPIRATION

Remarkably Strong Bond of Affection Existed Between "Labby" and His Daughter.

Mr. Labouchere was a bitter, sleepless foe to cruelty to women and children. The world knows some of the abuses he corrected, but there are scores of others which have never come before the public eye, where children and women have been rescued from torture, from vice and from deception.

The explanation of this side of his character would at one time have been reached if Labby could have been seen patiently rowing a boat on the Thames at Twickenham and chatting easily and considerately with a little girl whose piercing black eyes and expression and even speech were such a startling reproduction of his own, and whose tiny face bore a positively weird resemblance to that of the portrait of Labby's handsome mother which then hung in his dining room. The softest spot in Labby's heart—the most effective inspiration of most of his war on wrong and cruelty—was his frank, simple, pathetic affection for his little daughter who, now a woman grown, was present with him at his death.—Westminster Gazette.

TALK WITH HOFFMAN MT. STERLING KY.

Condition of Machpelah Cemetery Is Shameful.

Lets read the charter and see if the conditions are being complied with. The amendment made to the charter of the Machpelah Cemetery Company in 1881 are as follows:

"That for the purpose of keeping said cemetery grounds in repair in the future, it shall be the duty of said Cemetery Board to set aside twenty per cent. of all gross receipts of said Board from the sale of lots or otherwise to be invested by them each year in some safe securities until the fund for the purpose of keeping said cemetery grounds in repair (principal and interest) shall reach the sum of eight thousand dollars, the interest alone of said sum shall be used in keeping said grounds in repair, and purchasing other grounds. All the balance of the receipts shall be controlled by the Board of Directors of said company with the advice and consent of Watson Lodge."

We only ask what our dead would demand as their rights if they were living—and don't we owe it to their memory and to decency to see that it is done for them? We only ask that anyone who doubts the disgraceful, uncivilized condition of the cemetery, drive up there and compare it with the colored one and it will bring a blush of shame to their faces and a pang to their hearts. The odor of the hog pen, as we enter the gate, the decayed trees that they refuse to move, the vault, with its empty barrels, working tools and rubbish in front, the grass a foot high all over the cemetery, and last, but not least, the truck garden, dispensing the fragrant odors of onions and cabbage, greet our eyes and nostrils.

We only ask you who love your dead to look and not allow the resting place of your loved ones to be pointed out as the very worst cemetery in the State.

This is written only with the desire that we realize the absolute necessity of putting our cemetery in the proper condition, customary everywhere else but here. If our smaller neighboring towns of Owingsville and Sharpsburg can afford the expense of keeping their cemeteries in perfect condition, surely

Mt. Sterling should wake up and do the same. It really costs but very little to keep it clean and orderly.

It may be assumed that aside from our own objection to the present state of affairs, strangers, when seeing the conditions, criticize us freely, in fact it has given us the "black eye" long enough. Let us have a change for the better.

The Merchant's Lament

There are some shoppers in this town who think they know it all,
But they never buy in Mt. Sterling, Oh, no, this town's too small;
They shop, and shop, and, shop, and on clerk's have no pity,
But when they have a cent to spend, they go to Cincinnati.
But human nature's much the same no matter where you go,
And while our dear friends here think our stores so very slow,
In Cincinnati her sister or cousin, unmindful of the cost,
Can't find a thing to suit her there, and so goes further North.
In Chicago, that great city that is ruled by men from Cork,
Her sister's sister fails to find anything this side of New York.
While in New York another sister—and there are many more than three,
Can't find a thing to suit her there, and she goes across the sea.
In London and in Paris, where still other sisters dwell,
We really don't know where they go, but we hope they go to Hell-ena.

All About Kentucky.

The government has gotten out a booklet which presents convincing facts and figures telling of Kentucky's high rank in agriculture and industry; of the famous "Bluegrass region" where breeders, dairymen and sheep raisers have reached a high state of development; of the state's achievements as a leading corn and tobacco growing center; and of the success being met in trucking and fruit growing. The mineral, timber and manufacturing opportunities are also presented.

There are many illustrations to enliven the reading matter and cause the prospective settler to look upon Kentucky to cast his lot. The booklet will be given a wide circulation by the Southern Railway and the Mobile & Ohio Railroad among Northern and Western farmers of the type who would receive a welcome in Kentucky.

Short Ballot.

Petitions from the city of Chicago alone, for names to be placed on the primary ballot, have been filed by 388 Republicans and 555 Democrats. In addition, each precinct elects one Republican and one Democratic committeeman, the names of whom are not printed on the ballot but are written or pasted on, and there are at least two candidates for each party in every precinct. Assuming that there are four candidates in the 1,325 precincts, this makes 5,300 candidates. Adding the 388 Republicans and 555 Democrats gives a total of 6,243 people running for office in Chicago at the present time. It has been suggested that there might be a parade made up of 6,000 or more candidates. Possibly that might show the need of the short ballot.

The Road to Easy Street.

That the rich are not as happy as those who have less money is a statement frequently made by the poor, and often, no doubt, made in very much the same spirit in which the fox declared that the grapes were sour. In an article headed "As a Man Prospers," published in the Independent, William F. Dix, secretary of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, views riches and happiness from an unusual angle, and advises those whose incomes are growing. He undertakes to point out the road to Easy Street. He insists that it is not so much the amount of the income that makes a man rich as a sensible division of the income between expenses and investments. Great houses, expensive ornaments, enormous outlay for upkeep, he contends constitute waste. The man who "tinkers about the house himself, takes down his own window screens, puts up the needed shelves in the pantry, helps his wife plant the garden seeds and train the rose bushes," is more interested and happier than the owner of a large establishment who has nothing to do but give orders.

As a man prospers, says Mr. Dix, he should indulge in the luxury of investments more conservative than those he made when his capital was smaller. Six and 8 per cent. securities should be exchanged for 4 and 5 per cent. securities offering greater safety. His aim should be to acquire as soon as possible an income from strictly "gilt-edged" investments large enough to support his family. This will insure continued comfort, and the same scale of living, to his family in the event of his death. When he reaches the point at which he is living on his investments and can turn his earnings into capital he is on Easy Street, and after a lifetime of straining his resources to live in style he dies leaving his family able to continue their scale of living because his earnings no longer contribute to the family income.

"Better a cottage with honeysuckle growing around the porch" and an income from gilt-edged investments, thinks Mr. Dix, than a mansion supported by earnings that are precarious because death or illness may cut them off at any time, leaving a family used to luxury and not in a position longer to enjoy it.

Great houses are very rarely high grade assets to the second generation. Estates are usually so divided in America upon the death of the head of a family that an establishment which was kept up by the expenditure of a considerable part of the total income of the owner must be sold to settle the estate or becomes a burden upon the heir who undertakes to continue it. The lightning of genius for money-making rarely strikes twice in the same family tree, at least it rarely strikes in consecutive generations. A handsome home as an inheritance is often doubtful good fortune, and rarely salable at anything like the cost price.

As a rule it is not until a man who is prospering has reached middle life that he is able to build a palace. His "expectancy" is therefore not long when he gets into it. If he has four or five children the probability of any one of them keeping up the manor after death is small, and it is rarely practical for several children of a rich man to share the family mansion after the head of the family is gone. It is often the case that the successful American, whose great house is in a way a self-reared monument, like the pyramids and other piles built to commemorate the greatness of those responsible for their construction, is rather lonely at home while his children are spending in travel the revenue that remains after maintaining the palace. And a majority of great houses are closed much of the time.

A simple house of chaste design and moderate dimensions, which may be kept up without great expenditure, is more likely to remain in the family. When it is a century old it is quite as likely to be a source of pride to the owner as a larger one. It is much less likely to be a burden instead of a comfort to the builder during his residence in it, and it allows him to leave those dependent upon him so provided for that they will not have to remove from a huge establishment to a flat.

Frozen Gas.

Only those who have had sufficient experience with gas during severe winter weather know for a certainty that gas will freeze.

While it seems absurd to argue that gas is affected by frost such is indeed the case and during a single week in the city of Chicago the gas companies received nearly 50,000 calls to thaw out frozen gas pipes which necessitated the employing of 600 extra men.

Extreme cold causes the vapor in the pipes to freeze, thus impeding the flow of gas. All through the northern country during the past winter gas pipes were frozen, causing great inconvenience to families depending entirely upon gas for cooking purposes. In exact opposition to this is the fact that users of electricity are not hampered by cold weather. In fact, they actually have better service at low temperatures owing to the superior insulation then afforded.

At Last?

Has spring come at last? Do we sniff the near and sure approach of days when one may sit in the sun upon the roots of a gnarled sycamore and absorb ozone while listening to the soothing music of the "glad waters running over shelving shallows rimmed with clover?" Sit and dream while waiting for a fish to nibble and for a cork to bob upon the eddying surface of a foam-flecked pool?

What? Are there really, or really to be, deep purple violets in the woods? Sweet Williams, cowslips, larkspur, Dutchman's breeches? Here and there a golden yellow lady-slipper, or a fresh green Jack-in-the-pulpit?

Will scented wood smoke from burning brush ascend in blue spirals from the valleys and bring incense to the cliffs? And cows stand knee deep and chew their cud in streams from which the ice has long since melted?

Will boys soon be shedding shoes and stockings? And surreptitiously braving the chill depths of swimming holes, drying their hair in the sun before venturing home?

And are there swallows? After weeks of zero weather, will they return? After the blinding snows and searching winds, did the lilacs survive? The daffodils, and dandelions? The little Stars of Bethlehem! The frogs? Did they pull through, and will they lift again their rasping voices in the marshes? And the brown thrasher, the catbird, the robin, the whippoorwill, the bluebird and the bobolink?

And garden sass? May it, at last, be committed to the earth in form of seeds, with hope of fruitage?

The Contagion of Good Farming.

It is not imitation that accounts for the adoption by farmers in a given community of the methods that one of their neighbors has employed with success. Object lessons are not valuable merely because they engender rivalry or lead to imitation; they do their work through a contagion. A progressive, steadfast man who works out his economic and larger salvation on a farm is the source of a compelling local drive toward social and material betterments. His own progress represents an inner desire for these things. His influence and example act as a helpful contagion in his community. Once the seed of which this mental and moral condition is the fruit is planted in agricultural soil welcome results inevitably follow.

What comparatively backward farming regions need first of all is men, with the training, ambition and balance that confer the power of awakening their fellows. If each township could claim even one farmer of this type the country life problem, to which this nation is devoting much thought and money, would solve itself.

Modern agricultural education and the co-operation of multiplying social forces are discovering and developing men and women ultimately capable, through themselves and their children, of spreading the contagion of good farming. County experts employed to counsel and work with farmers represent an important step in the right direction. Graduates of the colleges who return to, purchase or manage farms are supplementary aids. Slowly but surely American farmers are meeting their problems, and the contagion of good farming is giving vigor and momentum to their progress.

CHALLENGE FROM W. S. LLOYD

Offers to Refund Money if Dr. Howard's Specific Will Not Cure Any Case of Constipation or Dyspepsia.

W. S. Lloyd is seeking the worst case of dyspepsia or constipation in Mt. Sterling or vicinity to test Dr. Howard's new specific for the cure of those diseases.

So confident is he that this remarkable medicine will effect a lasting cure in a short time, that he offers to refund the money should it not be successful.

In order to secure the quickest possible introduction W. S. Lloyd will sell a regular fifty cent package of this medicine at half price, 25 cents.

This specific of Dr. Howard's will cure sick headache, dizzy feelings, constipation, dyspepsia and all forms of malaria and liver trouble. It does not simply give relief for a time; it makes permanent and complete cures.

It will regulate the bowels, tone up the whole intestinal tract, give you an appetite, make food taste good and digest well, and increase vigor. Joy and happiness will take the place of that "don't care whether I live or die" feeling. 40-42

A little girl wrote the following composition on men: "Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women and also more zoological. Both men and women sprung from monkeys, but the women sprung further than the men."

Escaped Convict Pleads

Own Case at Frankfort.

Frankfort, Ky., April 3.—A jury in the Franklin Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon listened to a speech by a convict, in defense of himself, probably the first time in the history of the State that a convict acted as his own attorney. The prisoner was Frank Sayman, a burglar and prizefighter who had escaped from the penitentiary several months since. He was tried on a charge of escaping and lost his first case as a lawyer, for he was convicted and sentenced to serve from one to six years in the penitentiary in addition to the term which he is now serving for housebreaking in Mt. Sterling.

Sayman spoke to the jury in his own behalf and made an eloquent plea. He is a good-looking young man and his speech appealed strongly to the jurors, but they could not help but find him guilty as no evidence presented for the defense.

Charles King, a negro, also charged with escaping, was convicted and sentenced to the prison for from one to six years. He had only fifty-eight days to serve when he ran away from the warden house where he was cooking. He did not have a lawyer and told the jury that he did not know he was violating any law when he escaped from the penitentiary.

Sayman is one of the men who robbed the home of Col. A. W. Hamilton a few years ago.
